Wisconsin Chapter of the American College of Healthcare Executives Regional Networking and Education Program

Lean Healthcare Practices

Program Description:

According to a recent article in Healthcare Executive (MAR/APR 2010), an estimated 20-43% of the hospitals in the United States are currently using some form of a Lean or Six Sigma initiative and that number is expected to grow exponentially. Lean thinking can help improve patient throughput, patient safety, engage physicians and staff, improve bottom lines and help design efficient facilities. Aneesh Suneja, author of "Lean Doctors: A Bold and Practical Guide to Using Lean Principles to Transform Healthcare Systems, One Doctor at a Time." will provide practical information and examples on how to implement Lean practices in your organization.

Learning Objectives:

- Deployment of quality initiatives and change management.
- Lean transformation case study from Children's Hospital of Wisconsin.
- Two strategic decisions & six success steps that achieve sustained results.
- Discussion on Lean series and future Lean break-out programs.

About the Presenter:

Aneesh Suneja, author of "Lean Doctors: A Bold and Practical Guide to Using Lean Principles to Transform Healthcare Systems, One Doctor at a Time"

Aneesh recently helped the Orthopedics program at Children's Hospital of Wisconsin achieve significant reductions in waiting time and increases in productivity. He is also implementing Lean projects at Froedtert and the Medical College of Wisconsin. Aneesh is a chemical engineer and holds an MBA from Marquette University. He is a certified Six Sigma Blackbelt and has over 12 years of Lean experiences in six different industries.
